Getting What You Pay For?

When you go out to buy a suit of clothes do you get what you pay for?

Or do you take the suit because it will cover you and the price happens to please.

There is a way to buy clothes intelligently and that is to look for the Kuppenheimer label.

That label signifies to you good material, good workmanship, good style, in fact the clothes must make good or they will.

The largest line of Kuppenheimer Suits and Overcoats in this vicinity is here ready to be shown.

The Wishbone BEDSPRING

There are two things that you want above everything else in a Bed-spring: you want it to be sanitary; and you want it to be comfortable. You spend a third of your life in bed; and you have a right to make certain that those hours are restful and healthy. Get the Wishbone Bedspring and they will be.

The Wishbone, in the first place, is all new material — many ordinary springs are made of second hand tubing and wire. Then, in addition, the Wishbone is absolutely noiseless — no small plates, connecting its links, to rattle and disturb your sleep. It is guaranteed rust-proof (notice the special Rome gray finish); and the exclusive design of its curved links means new resilience, give and spring. See the Wishbone by all means — it is a wonderful value.

Finished in the Rome gray enamel, electrically baked on, the Wishbone is absolutely dust-proof and free from grease. It does not stain the mattress or the bedding where tucked under. Just compare the sanitary, gray enamel Wishbone with the ordinary, faded bronze-finished spring.

Look on the Spring for the Card that describes this special Rome gray enamel.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Many relatives and friends were at St. James' church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, to attend the funeral services for Private Armand Poitras, first local veteran of the World war to die since the signing of the armistice. The funeral was held from the home of Private Poitras' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Damase Poitras, on School street.

Rev. John Roux, M. S., Rev. M. J. Ginet, M. S., and Rev. August Chapin, M. S., were officiating at the solemn high mass of requiem. Two score members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion attended in a body and in uniform. The bearers were all veterans of the World war—Philip Robert, D. S. C., Edward Roberge, Thomas Galliohan, Napoleon Lamoureux, John Breyer, and A. C. Godreau. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Though she was suffering Tuesday from bruises and the nervous shock resulting from her experience, Mrs. Frederick Short, who plucked the street from a bus when a Ford touring car struck it Monday afternoon apparently was not seriously injured in the accident and no permanent after effects are anticipated.

The Hugh Nason Construction company which has been engaged since early in the summer on the construction of a big concrete stockhouse for the Quinebaug company, has the structure nearly completed. The finishing work is now being done and the structure will be ready for use this fall.

Robert Mullen, who fell while engaged at his work in the mill of the Quinebaug Woolen company at Dayville on Monday afternoon, died at his home in that place early Monday evening. He did not regain consciousness.

Mullen was a native of Ireland, but had been a resident of Dayville for about 25 years and was an industrious and respected citizen. He leaves his wife and eight children, Patrick, Robert, Mrs. Sarah Mathias, Annie, Mary Ellen, Aspa, Marguerite and Lauretta.

The world looked brighter Tuesday to Clinton Ellison, of Goodville. His touring car, stolen Sunday night from where he had left it at the Salem parkway in Worcester, has been recovered by the Worcester police. It appears that the man who stole the car, while making a fast getaway, ran over Worcester, ran too close to a fence, while passing another car, about three miles out from the city, and tore off a fender and the tail light and number plate. Thus handicapped, it is apparent, the men were afraid to chance running through towns or cities, so abandoned the machine, a fact that was reported to the Worcester police, who had the car brought to the garage in this city. The car is not seriously damaged and will be ready for use again within a few days.

To enable as many as possible to attend the Windham County Agricultural Fair at Brooklyn and view the many fine attractions which it has been promised, will be of the same high standard as in the past, the Windham County National Bank of Danielson will close for the balance of the day at 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Let us forget: See Mary Pickford in Heart of the Hills, a delightful play, in which Little Mary appears in an entirely new role, as a mountain girl, at the Orpheum theater today and Thursday afternoon and evening.

Secretary Marshall J. Frink of the Windham County Agricultural society, was jubilant Tuesday afternoon over the way entry day had lighted up the prospects for an unusually successful Brooklyn fair. Exhibits fairly poured into the grounds during Tuesday and concession men and others added to the hustle and bustle of getting the show into shape.

People long familiar with Brooklyn fairs will mark at its midway today. Nothing like the array of attractions now at the grounds has been seen at Brooklyn and will not be seen again. It will vie with the men who spin the wheels or take your picture for a dime today in their endeavors to please the crowds that always frequent the county's big annual exhibition.

Mr. Frink was feeling especially pleased Tuesday over the manner in which entries have come in for the speed classes. All of these are filled. There are nine horses down to start in the free for all and seven are entered for the 2.25 class. Four horses were entered in the county class, which always is of special interest.

Brooklyn and Canterbury granges have big exhibits at the fair, these showing what is being done by grange members in an endless variety of agricultural, dairying and domestic endeavors.

That the farmer is turning more and more to the use of machinery in lightening his arduous occupation is attested by the large display of farm machinery, tools, milking machines, etc., etc. Lining systems for farm places and country homes are also much in evidence.

Cattle entries are expected this year and some splendid specimens of stock are on the grounds today. New models of touring cars and trucks are among the displays that will interest a great many persons.

The poultry show will be big and in this department there will be interest in the culling demonstration today. It was arranged by County Agent Davis in conjunction with representatives of the Connecticut Agricultural college.

A federal inspector representing the postoffice department made a visit to the county jail at Brooklyn Tuesday to have a look at the safe-breakers held there under the names of John Burke and John Ryan, these men captured here a few weeks ago when they blew a safe at the grocery store of Andrew Jarowski. The inspector, hailing from Atlanta, interviewed Burke and Ryan. It was later stated that they are not the men he expected to find at Brooklyn. It has been fairly well established, however, that John Burke is Uriel Burke, wanted by the police of various cities. Burke is seriously afflicted with tuberculosis and apparently has not long to live.

PUTNAM

Everett J. Lake, republican candidate for governor of Connecticut, is to be present at the Woodstock fair, it was given out here Tuesday, and will make an address during the afternoon. Mr. Lake was born in Woodstock and has many close friends in that town and in Putnam.

It was stated here Tuesday that Putnam also is likely to have a visit before the end of the national political campaign from Governor Calvin Coolidge, who is expected to speak at a rally here, probably during the month of October. It was given out here Tuesday by persons in close touch with the republican organization here.

A case of unusual interest is scheduled for trial before Judge Malbie and a jury in the superior court here beginning today (Wednesday), this being the civil suit of Jennie M. Willis vs. Newton A. Ballard, of South Main street, this city, and Michael J. Kenney of Mechanicsville.

The action grows out of an automobile accident that occurred on Mechanic street in this city on October 5 of last year. Cars driven respectively by Mr. Ballard and Mr. Kenney were in collision and the plaintiff, who was a guest riding in Mr. Ballard's car, was seriously injured.

The papers in the case allege that as a result of the accident the plaintiff had two bones broken in her left wrist and the ligaments of her wrist torn, her right collar bone broken, both shoulders dislocated and right elbow fractured, right jaw bone fractured and nose injured. It is also alleged that it was necessary to extract the plaintiff's teeth in order that her jaw might be brought back into normal position.

The cars that figured in the accident were approaching each other practically head-on. It is claimed, when the drivers turned out in the same direction at about the same time, the cars crashing together at the intersection of their courses.

An unusually well qualified group of applicants for admission as citizens appeared before Judge Malbie in the superior court on Tuesday morning. The great majority were subjects of Great Britain, many of them being representatives of the empire's colonies, principally Canada. Some men who formerly had been in the army or navy were admitted showed at Tuesday's examination that they had been studying and they found no difficulty in answering the questions asked of them and were readily admitted.

Those who were accepted as citizens were: Joseph Durand, Hugh Murphy, Adolphe Turcotte, Adolphe Laurion, Henry Broder, Frederic Desjardins, Victor Martel, Joseph Cristina, Edwin Nygren, Eucher Marion, Henry Cooper, Thomas Cooper, David Reed Hicks, Wilfred Davis, John William Warburton, Edward Cabana, Joseph Demers, Felix Desautels, Louis Dumas, Angelus Raphael Braciale, Albert Langelier, Victor Smith, Omer Houle, Lucille Grosseau, Louis Phillips, Durand, Joseph Ducharme, Geoffrey Farland, Philip Farland, Thomas Powers, Alfred Fauson, Hazen Albert Calhoun, Edward Dufrenoy, Alfred Thompson, Simon Breen, George Shepherd, Frank Rosinski, Patrick Mullen, Harry Kennedy, Carl Gustav Henry Johnson, Louis Alfred Hamel, Alphonse Pilon, Euclid Marcotte, Toussaint Constant, Charles Emil St. Germain, Amadeo Gaudet, Edward Gaudet, Louis Christian Van der Laan, Henry St. Germain, Andrew Ganza, Joseph H. Breaux, Cornelius Conz, Zack Tellow, Samuel Brooks and Joseph Birch.

Dr. James M. Kent, of New York, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. K. Kent of this city, was in the Equitable building in New York last Thursday a few minutes before the explosion of the bomb that scattered debris all over the city in the financial district. The Equitable structure is close beside the Morgan bank, and while the Equitable building shows the marks of flying metal and debris. In a letter received here from Dr. Kent who was a medical officer with the rank of major.

Repeated tests of the Captain Put motor pump during the past few days has definitely established that there is no mechanical or electrical trouble with the big machine and that it is in perfect working order. All of which seems to make certain that little difficulties experienced with it in the past month have been due to malicious tampering with its electrical equipment.

Some freight is being moved into Danielson from Providence by the motor truck line that is establishing a service between the two places.

Regular buses and special buses will be run steadily from Danielson to the Brooklyn fair today and Thursday by Pellet line; fare 15c; extra bus service also from Dayville to the fair, fare 25c; service from Moonson to the fair, fare 25c.

The familiar greeting "How do you do?" has been modernized to "How is your Brew?" by numbers of experimenting citizens.

Byron D. Bugbee, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for congressman from this district was a visitor in Danielson.

Dr. W. H. Knowles' dental office opens with regular office hours Tuesday, September 21—adv.

Carl Witter is to act as starter of the races at the Brooklyn fair today and Thursday.

Louis Curtis, railway mail clerk, of New London, was a visitor with friends here on Tuesday.

A load of hard coal being put into the basement of the town hall building created something more than subdued interest Tuesday morning. Some discouraged citizens here are prone to inquire whether the Volstead act prohibits the use of coal. Two England families, Harry C. Johnson of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

of major overseas during the world war, he tells of coming down from the Equitable building just fifteen minutes before the explosion occurred and recalls having noted standing beside the curb the rig that now is supposed to have brought in the explosives. Dr. Kent was not near the place when the explosion occurred, however.

Nothing very definite was done as to arrangements for the observance of Armistice day, Monday evening at the meeting of the committee composed of Thomas Culley, Michael J. White and Clifford Trahan was appointed to make plans for the event. Dr. E. F. Perry, commander of the post, said Tuesday that he did not know just what form the observance to be arranged by the post would take, but that the anniversary would not be allowed to go by unnoticed. The post is not financially strong enough to arrange for any general observance, but is warmly welcome from the public a general interest in the event observed.

Announcement that Byron D. Bugbee, of this city, is a candidate for the republican nomination for congressman from this district was received here on Tuesday with wide-spread approval, and the same is true of the feeling toward Mr. Bugbee in about every section of Windham county. He already is a subject of very strong support from delegates in this part of the state and his friends say that he will appeal very effectively as a candidate to delegations from all parts of the district.

Mr. Bugbee is regarded as a real find for a candidate by republican leaders in this district. He is entirely fitted in every respect to represent the district at Washington. His own career has been very successful and he is recognized as an unusually able and efficient man, one of the most successful that this city has produced. His keen business judgment and sagacity is universally recognized.

organized in his home city and in all of the towns where he is well known. In public matters of importance here Mr. Bugbee's opinions always have carried great weight.

In discussing Mr. Bugbee's candidacy Tuesday one of Putnam's prominent citizens said of him: "He has the experience, the ability and every other necessary qualification for the making of a congressman who can carry influence for his district at Washington. I am very anxious to see him nominated, for his party can elect him."

A display of products grown by H. R. Kennedy of Longidge Farm, near the county home for children, attracted a great deal of attention here on Tuesday. The window of a Main street store where the vegetables were shown was an attraction all day long for men and women, many of whom have not realized that such a splendid fine specimen of cucumbers, onions, pumpkins, peppers, Swiss chard and other garden products were grown in this immediate vicinity.

Every entry in the remarkable display was a prize winning quality and would attract attention anywhere.

Attorney Irvine H. Miron has returned here after attending a conference of republicans at the home of Senator Harding, the republican candidate at Marion, Ohio. Attorney Miron says that Marion is very prettily decorated and that every home and business in the town shows in at least one window a picture of Senator Harding.

It was stated here Tuesday that it is expected a meeting of representatives of various high schools hereabouts will be held before long to make arrangements for the coming season of the Quinebaug Valley basketball league.

Considerable interest was shown on Tuesday by poultrymen in the culling demonstrations conducted under the direction of County Agent Davis.

The funeral of John Harold Harrington, 9, who died Monday of infantile paralysis, was held from the home of his parents Tuesday afternoon. The funeral was private.

It was stated here Tuesday that there is no prospect of trolley service being resumed this winter between Putnam and Webster. Cars have not run between the Grovesendales and Webster since the ice period tied up the service, in February last.

Friends of Miss Marian Stark of Korea have had letters from her recently telling of her vacation spent about 50 miles from Seoul, at Wujong, in "The Diamond Mountains." She and five other young women made an eight days' trip through the mountains with guides, where there were no paths, the tourists sleeping nights in their blankets in monasteries.

They were the first women to make the trip on foot, others who had been through having been carried in chairs. The scenery all through the mountains was magnificent, rough forests, swift mountain streams and waterfalls of all types imaginable. This trip took about eight days. The most of the remainder of the time was spent at Wonsan Beach, where there is quite a community of Americans, mostly missionaries. She commences this fall her second year teaching missionaries' children; this fall they have a new high school teacher. Miss Stark expresses herself a enjoying very much her many and varied experiences in the Orient.
